MISSING SHIPS MAY HAVE BEEN SUNK BY GERMAN BATTLESHIP

Four British Merchant Ships Long Overdue—Press Welcomes News British Troops Now In Action on Western Front—Accession Day Passes Without Salute

LONDON, Dec. 11 (CP).—The possibility that four missing British merchant vessels were sunk by the German 10,000-ton pocket battleship, Admiral Scheer, while they were heading for Britain was discussed tonight in naval circles.

The missing ships are the Adria, 4,222 tons, Newton Beach, 4,631 tons, Winnipeg, 5,299 tons, and Hullam, 4,199 tons.

The Adria was with a crew of thirty-five, was last heard from when it left Capetown, October 17. The Winnipeg was reported overdue since mid-November.

GERMAN BOMBER FLIES
An unidentified airplane, believed to be a German Heinkel bomber, was seen today when British fighters rose to attack after it was discovered flying at a high altitude over Yorkshire.

The morning bomber off the south coast was a German biplane, which came out of the cloud over a town, and then turned eastward over the English coast.

No alarm was caused by the sighting, as no shot was fired. The day of hope was the fifth anniversary of the start of the war.

Mediation Offer Given by League To Soviet Russia

Answer Expected From Moscow Within Twenty-Four Hours—Refusal Will Mean Allied Help With War Material for the Finns and Ousting of Russia From League

GENEVA, Dec. 11 (CP).—The League of Nations tonight gave Soviet Russia a "last chance" offer of twenty-four hours to halt her war on Finland and submit the dispute to league mediation.

What action the league might take if Russia refused to mediate still was uncertain, but it appeared rejection of the offer would mean Allied arms and munitions and Latin-American food and oil for the embattled Finns.

Following the call of the Finnish delegate Rudolf Hoel, for all practical support possible, a League committee on the Russian-Finnish question sent the Russian Government a four-point telegram.

THE FOUR POINTS
1. That the council had sent Finland's appeal for League action in the dispute to the Assembly.
2. That the Assembly invite both Finland and Russia to suspend hostilities and begin peace negotiations under League mediation.

MONTREAL, Dec. 11 (CP).—Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, today suggested the establishment of a voluntary board to plan for post-war development of Canada and fulfillment of the nation's destiny as one of the greatest countries in the world.

"I believe our future will be greater than the greatest vision can dream," Dr. Manion told the Canadian Club in a luncheon address today.

"We need good sense, courage and determination. We can build Canada into one of the greatest countries in the world. We are just starting toward the top."

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1939, by Southern Co.)
LONDON, Dec. 11 (By Cable).—British troops are now in the Maginot line, manning field defenses on the German frontier. They have established contact with the enemy, and already have had their first skirmish with Nazi patrols. Not long after the first shots were fired King George visited the sector and looked across the frontier into German territory.

British troops will not carry out actual Maginot fortifications. That is the work of highly-trained French specialists. Instead, they will hold advanced field positions extending in front of the main Maginot fortifications.

More evidence that the Soviet Union did not expect to have to fight Finland but hoped, without aid to get Finnish territory for air and naval bases on lease and in exchange for Soviet territory, is given by The Times Moscow correspondent today. He says that up to 7 p.m. November 30 Germany was informed in Moscow that Russian military operations against Finland were not intended.

Apparently Stalin's advisers decided only at the last minute to take the plunge. When they saw that Russia was thought the campaign would be extremely brief and Helsinki occupied in a few days. Now the whole Russian timetable has been upset and the nations have met at Geneva to decide whether Russia is to be expelled from the League as guilty of unprovoked aggression.

Britain and France, says The Times, are not to be disappointed by their efforts against the main enemy by undertaking to fight more vigorously. But much short of declaring war can and must be done by other countries to help Finland.

"So magnificently," adds The Times, "that the League of Nations, which is a small diversion of British and French resources should insure their triumph in the air, consequently their triumph in defense. If Finland is to be saved she must be saved now."

As for the general picture of the war in Finland, the Red army is now in contact with Finnish forces across the Karelian Isthmus, between Lake Ladoga and the Baltic. In the middle of Finland the Russians are making slow progress towards their objective of reaching the Gulf of Bothnia and cutting off Northern Finland from the rest of the country.

Hand-to-hand fighting is reported around Petajavesi, where the Finns have shown such capacity that the Russians are reported to have sent the Siberian reinforcements in a number of flights in the snow and darkness.

Though Germany has denied she sent supplies to Finland, it is known in Berlin that the export of a Russian supply, as reported by the Frankfurter Zeitung, is being sent to Finland.

Finland sends Germany large supplies of copper which Russia also needs.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Dec. 12 (CP-Ha).—The King who returned to London on Sunday, in a message to Viscount Gort, commander of British forces in the field, today the new generation of "Tommy" at the front "is at least the equal" of its predecessors "in efficiency and spirit."

The message, sent after His Majesty's visit to the front, was broadcast today to the British Commonwealth. It was also broadcast in the French press.

LEAVING CONFIDENCE

It has given me the greatest pleasure to visit the troops and see the command in France and the days which I have been able to spend among them have been full of interest and have had an opportunity of seeing for myself something of the conditions in which they are living and of the work in which they are engaged.

I am gratified from all you have shown me that the British soldier of today is at least the equal of his predecessor, both in efficiency and spirit.

"I would most wish to see all ranks of the B.E.F. and as are them of the complete and unflinching confidence placed in them by their fellow countrymen."

CLAIM FATAL BLOW IS DEALT LEAGUE

ROME, Dec. 11 (CP-Ha).—Italy's press today claimed that a fatal blow was dealt the League of Nations by Italy's resignation, which became effective today after the last two years' negotiations.

Italy resigned in 1937 after several years of being opposed by the nations of the world.

FAMINE IS EXPECTED

BERLIN, Dec. 11 (CP-Ha).—Eighteen persons were killed yesterday when a passenger train struck a car on the tracks near Leipzig. Twenty others were injured.

B.C. ASSENTS TO APPLE PLAN

Gentlemen's Agreement Is Mentioned Over Division Of Canadian Markets

While prohibition of trading over intra-provincial border lines might not stand up in a court of law, the new apple marketing arrangement as suggested by the Canadian Horticultural Council embodied a "gentlemen's agreement" made last September between Eastern and Western growers looking to apportion markets in Canada. It was intimated yesterday at the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

Under this arrangement, after September 30 last Ontario and Quebec apple growers bound themselves to refrain from selling on the Pacific market in consideration of British Columbia growers abandoning efforts to sell in those two provinces. That left four provinces to British Columbia, which officials of the Provincial Department of Agriculture considered fair.

"As we can see it, there is no cause for panic among interior growers, and there is really no justifiable kick coming from British Columbia. The whole thing was a gentlemen's agreement, and likely there will be available markets for all the fruit and vegetables that British Columbia will produce for some time to come," an official of the department declared.

Officially, British Columbia is supporting the arrangement with a view to improving marketing conditions all round.

PRUDHOMME TO BE SENTENCED

Court Finds Accused Guilty On Charge of Unlawfully Selling Beer

Found guilty on a charge of unlawfully selling beer on December 3, James Prudhomme was remanded in custody for sentence this morning at the conclusion of his trial before Magistrate Henry C. Hall in the city police court yesterday. Patrick J. Sinnott represented the accused.

Constable Angus Munro stated he visited premises at 128 Niagara Street in company with Constable George Clavard, at 4:45 o'clock on the morning of December 3. He tendered the accused a $1 bill and received four bottles of beer while waiting outside in a car. Constable Clavard corroborated the evidence.

Sergeant Roy Woolley told of finding thirty-three bottles of beer inside the house, forty-two empty beer bottles, five partly-full beer bottles and four glasses containing beer in a front room. The sergeant said Prudhomme admitted selling beer to the constables. Constables Samuel McKenzie and John Howe also told of searching the house.

CLAIMS OTHER SALE

Prudhomme claimed that he had sold Constable Clavard beer while operating as taxi stand at 628 1/2 Johnson Street. He swore that the constable handed him a $2 bill and asked for three or four bottles of beer. He had replied that he possessed no change, and was told to keep the money.

During further examination of his client, Mr. Sinnott attempted to establish the fact that other beer sales had been made to Constable Clavard.

Magistrate Hall administered a stern rebuke to Mr. Sinnott. He remarked: "An attempt is being made to besmirch the constable's character. I cannot see any excuse for making an attack on the constable when the sale has been acknowledged. I do not believe Prudhomme's story. He was obviously lying on certain matters."

Claude L. Harrison, the city prosecutor added: "It is unfortunate that an attempt has been made to cast reflections on a constable's character. Constable Clavard is an efficient officer."

Free Picture Show

Members of the Civic Employees' Federation, their wives and friends have been invited by Herbert J. Penderay to view motion pictures of his world tour in the hall at fire department headquarters at 8 o'clock tonight.

Election Campaign In Saanich Opened With Two Meetings

With Only Three Contests in the Municipality, Little Interest Being Displayed—Reeve A. G. Lambrick and Others Address Gatherings

MUCH of the interest and excitement in Saanich municipal election meetings will be lacking this year due to the fact that there will be contests only in two of the seven wards and for one seat on the police commission. This fact seemed apparent when two initial campaign meetings were attended by relatively small crowds.

In Ward One some fifty people attended the gathering in the C.C.P. Hall, Mount Tolmie, while an even smaller number was present in the Gordon Head Hall, in Ward Three.

Reeve A. G. Lambrick, who was returned by acclamation, spoke at both meetings, while candidates for public office and councillors were also heard.

The financial condition of the municipality, as illustrated in a report for the first ten months of the current year, was reviewed by Reeve Lambrick. The percentage of tax collections this year was higher than last and taxes in arrears were decreasing. More dog taxes had been collected this year than ever before and the trade licences and road and poll tax collections had been more than doubled.

NET DEBT REDUCED
He said that the net debt of the municipality had been reduced over $35,000 and the shortage in the sinking funds cut by $3,919.09. A $5,000 surplus was expected this year. The reduction in the sinking fund which existed prior to this year was being made up. Money in this fund, which was being reinvested, he added, earned interest and thus resulted in a saving of 1 1/2 per cent on the interest paid on the principle. Hospital and fire department costs were up over last year. Water mains in Ward Four had to be removed, but referring to the system of well-drilling, the reeve said that the council wanted to be sure of the source of supply before mains were replaced in other sectors.

The reeve said that the only way to avoid a Greater Victoria plan was to make it unnecessary to enter and the only way to do this was to co-operate in every way possible. He also spoke of the co-operation enjoyed between the other municipalities in office and police work.

COUNCILLOR HOWKOID
Councillor J. W. Howkoid said that he felt the experience which he had gained on the council in the past two years would be of use to the ratepayers if he were re-elected as councillor of Ward One. He expressed his thanks to the members of the municipal office staff for their co-operation, and the diligence and enthusiasm of their work during the past year.

He reviewed ward expenditures, which totaled $6,750, $1,750 in excess of the ward appropriation. He regretted the fact that Saanich was not represented on the inter-municipal transportation committee.

JOHN WATSON
John Watson said that he was completing the Ward One seat at the request of many taxpayers. He added that he had served on the municipal council in 1936-37 and that he was responsible for the improvements to the transportation system and the introduction of a letter carrier service. Mr. Watson declared he believed in doing things square and above board and would do his best if elected.

JAMES DAY
James Day, candidate for police commissioner, told Ward Three ratepayers that he had been a C.P.R. police officer and had served with

JAMES DAY
James Day, candidate for police commissioner, told Ward Three ratepayers that he had been a C.P.R. police officer and had served with the Royal Garrison Artillery in England and India. Based on this experience, he offered his candidacy for the position.

Councillor J. R. Scoby reviewed Ward Three work during his term in office and mentioned a start that had been made on a plan to have at least part of one highway made permanent.

Truster M. W. Dawson spoke on school affairs and Councillors E. C. Warren and Leslie Pasmore gave short talks. Councillor Warren told of the well-drilling undertaking.

TWO CONTESTS WILL BE HELD IN ESQUIMALT

Ratepayers to Choose Three Councillors and One Police Commissioner

REEVE RETURNED BY ACCLAMATION

Only two contests will confront Esquimalt voters when they go to the municipal polls on Saturday. They will be faced with the situation of selecting three councillors from a field of five and one police commissioner from two candidates. It was learned from W. J. Cave, returning officer, when nominations closed yesterday afternoon.

A unique situation arose in the school board nominations. There were three vacant seats on the board, but only two names were nominated. As a result, the trustees will notify the municipal council of the vacancy, and if they fail to take action within one month, the board will make the appointment itself.

Reeve Alex Lockley was returned by acclamation for his seventh consecutive term. He was also re-elected by acclamation to the school board, along with Major A. A. Warde, present chairman.

LONG RECORD

In all the reeve has served as chief official of Esquimalt thirteen times, been on the council five times, and served fourteen and sixteen, respectively, as a school trustee and police commissioner.

Councillors Thomas Hadfield, G. R. Guillemaud and R. G. Humphreys are seeking re-election, while the other candidates for the posts are Frederick G. Eaton and Albert H. Dobson.

Commissioner Charles H. Smith and Councillor Humphreys will contest the single seat on the police commission.

Voting will take place between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. W. J. Cave will be the returning officer for Poll One at the municipal hall, and A. E. Cave will be deputy returning officer for Poll Two at 826 Craigflower Road.

LUMBER AND GRAIN WAIT

Movement of Commodities From Province in Hands Of Control Bords

The Pacific Coast freight and charter market for the month of November was adversely affected by the vicissitudes of war, increased insurance rates, and last but not least, labor disturbances, all of which resulted in shipowners increasing their rates of freight rates and a relatively small list of charters were effected, according to the chartering department of General Steamship Corporation, Limited.

No full cargoes or suitable parcels of grain have been reported fixed for United Kingdom-Continental delivery. Insofar as British Columbia is concerned, this business remains in the hands of the British Columbia Board, and just what tonnage, if any, is en route to load British Columbia wheat is set an unknown factor. With regard to lumber for United Kingdom-Continental destinations, the situation is much the same. It is not known what tonnage, or when it is due to arrive, has been allocated by the British Timber Control for moving timber from British Columbia.

Young Seattle Pilot Finds Life Interesting in British Flying Squadron

Richard Ensign, a young flyer of Seattle, who held a commercial pilot's licence for the United States, has been in the Royal Air Force for some months now. He came to Victoria with a British Columbia birth certificate in January last and enlisted the advice and services of Captain H. Seymour-Biggs in connection with requirements and the procedure necessary in applying for enrollment in Great Britain's air arm.

Writing to a flying pal in Seattle, who would also like to be flying in the Royal Air Force by the way, Dick Ensign states: "I am now acting pilot in His Majesty's Royal Air Force. I was gazetted last week after a strenuous course of training, lectures and writing examinations. My pass average was over 85 per cent. I also received a rating of 'above average' in my flying and 'link.' Not because I was so good, but because I worked like a blazer for it."

DAY AND NIGHT
"At the present depot we are on the go day and night, seven days a week. Night flying continues until midnight and we report again to our flight commander at 7:30 a.m.—that's before sun-up—dawn patrol. It's a wonderful station, too. Everything of the very best. You should see the swell quarters—quiet dining-hall, officers' lounge; but more interesting to you and I, the hangars—dozens of them; the airplanes—beautiful things; and the aerodrome—flat as a table and grass covered. There is no dust or dirt on a British aerodrome, and no cross landings. I am now training on Avro Ansons and did my first solo after two and a half hours' instruction. These are twin-engined jobs, with a wing spread of seventy feet and accommodation for ten passengers. The ships cruise at 160 miles per hour and are great climbers empty—the only way we fly them.

"Believe me, Clark, it means something to be an officer in this man's league. You aren't allowed to do anything for yourself. You go to the locker room to get into flying kit and there are a couple of blokes to help you on and off with your clothes. You go out to your ship, which is warmed and ticked over, and the airman who has carried your parachute out helps you into it and boosts you up into the cockpit."

TAKEN CARE OF
"Oh, yes, and there's my gentleman—Grieves. You would like him, too. He is under your heels all the time—takes care of your quarters, presses your uniform, polishes your buttons (this is very important)—wakes you up in

Pilots Go Up Day and Night

JOINING the Royal Air Force several months ago, British-born Richard Ensign, holder of a commercial pilot's licence in the United States, was recently gazetted acting pilot officer. He is enthusiastic over the way in which airmen are looked after in the Old Country, the machines they fly and the thorough preparations being carried out to create an efficient fighting force. Ensign is at present, while his commission is Acting Pilot Officer Birchall. The machine is an Avro Anson. Pilots of the squadron to which Ensign is attached are on duty from 7:30 a.m. until midnight, seven days a week.

PLANE HELD AT CHESTERFIELD
Rev. Joseph A. Bulliard Will Be Taken to Winnipeg For Treatment

WINNIPEG, Dec. 11 (CP)—Rough weather will likely prevent for several days the return to Winnipeg of Rev. Joseph A. Bulliard, who suffered serious frost bites while at his post at Repulse Bay on the west coast of Hudson Bay.

The priest is receiving hospital treatment at Chesterfield Infirmary, where he was brought by Captain Catton, who flew from Lac du Bonnet, Man., on the 1,200 miles mercy flight. However, it will be necessary, Canadian Airways officials announced today, to bring the priest to hospital at Winnipeg for further treatment.

Bad weather has followed Captain Catton, and he suffered several delays since his take-off, November 23. A heavy blow is expected to hold him at Chesterfield for several days.

SEAMEN ASKING FOR MORE MILK

Crew Aboard Freighter Vermont Refuse to Sail Unless Demand Met

TACOMA, Dec. 11 (CP)—The Quaker Line freighter Vermont was tied up here today because crew members refused to take the vessel out of port until officials meet their demand for "more milk."

Shafter Terminal executives said disorders aboard ship during the Saturday evening meal resulted in the seamen's ultimatum they would not sail "until we get more milk with our meals."

Quaker Line representatives and officials of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific were conferring in an attempt to settle the issue.

"The more milk demand is pure subterfuge," Kenneth Kennell, Quaker agent, said. "We don't know the real reason behind the refusal to sail."

The Vermont, operating between Puget Sound ports and the North Atlantic, was scheduled to sail on Saturday night for the Columbia River.

New Members of R.C.A.F. Will Get Same Pay and Allowances as Regulars

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 (CP)—Married personnel of the Royal Canadian Air Force enlisted since September 1 are to be treated as to pay and allowances like married airmen of the permanent R.C.A.F., until the new regulations are effective. It was announced today. Instructions to this effect have been telegraphed to all air force paymasters.

Hon. Norman Rogers, Defence Minister, instructed a survey be made after complaints reached him that families of some of the new air force personnel were suffering hardship by reason of non-payment of allowances. As a result of this survey, it was found there are comparatively few cases of such hardship. It was said, "In most cases are being dealt with immediately."

Pending the new regulations which will shortly be issued dealing with pay and allowances of the air force, instructions have been issued that pay and allowances are to be granted promptly in all cases; that dependent's allowances for wife and children are to be paid immediately and that every consideration be given cases other than wife and children pending the usual investigation which must be made under the regulations. When the new regulations are issued, adjustments will be made wherever necessary.

CHIEF PETTY OFFICER OFFERS POSSIBLE EXPLANATION OF WHAT HAPPENED ON SUBMARINE THESES
LONDON, Dec. 11 (CP)—Panic may have been responsible for the after escape-hatch on the Thetis, a chief petty officer of the Royal Navy said today as hearings resumed into the submarine disaster, which cost ninety-lives last June.

"A man panics and somebody may have opened the door on the forward side to allow him to get out," Chief Petty Officer T. Rowkins testified. "The man on the after side would know only that a man was panicking. Of a man may have tried to open the hatch, but could not do it because he found the hatch spindle was not free to revolve. Then somebody, to get the man out, may have opened the forward door and flooded the submarine."

Earlier testimony revealed one of the doors of the escape-chamber and one of the main valves into the chamber were found open when the ship was raised.

JUNIOR GROUPS GIVE CONCERT

Musical Art Society Young People Present Delightful Joint Programme

An evening of enjoyable surprises supplied by some of the best young musical talent in the city was experienced by the audience that filled the New Thought Hall Saturday night for the annual joint concert by the three junior branches of the Victoria Musical Art Society.

Given in four sections, the programme represented the juvenile group, of which Mrs. Gordon McCurdy is convenor; the intermediate group, Mrs. R. D. McCaw and Miss Griffith convenors; the auxiliary group, and also the parent group through its honorary president, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, who was the guest speaker. Ursula Hills, programme convenor, was the mistress of ceremonies, and there were present to represent the parent society, in a non-active capacity, the president, Dudley Wickett, Mrs. Bradshaw, Mrs. John Kyle and Mrs. Dorothy Parsons, each of whom expressed delight with the high standard of performance.

As guest speaker Mrs. Cameron told, with many amusing "human interest" touches, about some of the famous artists whom she had met on the occasion of their visits to Victoria to play for the Musical Art Society and its parent, the Ladies' Musical Club, or whom she had personally sponsored. Among the names recalled were Anna Cze, Germaine Schmitzer, Louis Gravelle, Brum Zimbalist and his accompanist, Emanuel Bay, Percy Grainger, Georges Enesco, the English Singers, Mischa Elman and his quartette, Cedric Belfrage, Charles Wakefield Cadman in his recital with Eva Hart, Gertrude Huntly Green, Margaret Stokeman, Lily Noy, Tito Shipka, Harold Samuel, Joseph Szegell, Igor Gorin, John Charles Thomas, Plunket Greene, and several others. The young audience laughed heartily over many of the anecdotes, most of which, Mrs. Cameron emphasized, indicated how really simple, natural and delightfully human great artists are.

CIVIL AVIATION MAKES PROGRESS

Large Increase in Commercial Air Traffic Reported in Australia During Last Few Years

Colonel Hammond suggested hockey because he had been to Montreal and had seen the crowds at the old Mount Royal Arena. With this in mind he negotiated for the contract that brought the first New York Americans—the old Hamilton Tigers—to the Garden. For a short time he was president of the club.

In his younger days he was an all around athlete and later was a soldier, cattle raiser, banker and oil man.

half time there was no score.

Directly after the second half opened, Duke cut through center and made a fine running for a horse, who ran forty yards to score between the posts. Duke failed to convert. For the remainder of the match, play was pretty well even, both sides threatening seriously.

For the winners, Cupples all but scored on another occasion, while Gibbs pulled off a fine back-kick to halt the progress from scoring. Both sets of forwards were well matched.

URGES FORMATION OF DEVELOPMENT BOARD

"Some of the best brains in Canada are not in the House of Commons," he said. "That being true, why should not the Canadian Club or the Chamber of Commerce or some similar organization set up a voluntary board—call it the Canadian Security Council if you wish—made up of the best brains of the country? Even a good government cannot do everything."

Dr. Manion asked why some of Canada's businessmen should not use some of their energy to plan for the future of Canada after the war. He said some group of Canadians must accept the challenge and build on a foundation based on justice and fair dealing.

JUSTICE AT HOME

"We must prevent 'isms' such as Communism and Fascism from getting control of the country," he said. "Canada cannot go out and help small nations obtain justice and at the same time allow the seeds of injustice to be sown at home."

He said that Canada "constitutes the last great west—the country toward which hundreds of thousands of persons will be looking as a haven after this war." There would be "hordes of people" endeavoring to find new homes.

"There shall be great changes in Canada after the war. We are on a sounder basis than in 1914, and we have possibilities for the future that must not be overlooked. It is something we will have to look forward to—new industries, new capital, looking for safety."

THE CAT IS SAVED

LONDON, Dec. 11 (CP)—British coast guards tonight battled stormy seas off the east coast of England to reach a lifeboat from a ship sunk four days ago in Germany's submarine warfare. When they reached the boat it appeared to be empty, but they took it in tow and made their way back to shore. As the boat was beached, out jumped a hungry black cat, mascot of the ill-fated ship.

Rangers, Americans And Chicago Squad Register Triumphs

Patrick's Team Noses Out Boston Bruins in National Hockey League Tussle—Conacher Stars As Dutton's Aggregation Beats the Wings

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Grandma in the heyday of the patchwork quilt had nothing on Mervyn (Red) Dutton trying to piece together a team these nights for National Hockey League duty.

Things hit a new low as far as man-power is concerned for the Wings last season, when Dutton was able to dress only eleven men for a game with Detroit Red Wings.

But the injury-riddled Americans provided the week-end NHL highlight by staging a great rally behind the fine play of Charlie Conacher to defeat the Wings, 3-2, at the Motor City.

Two other Sunday contests ended with identical scores, New York Rangers defeating Boston Bruins, and Chicago Black Hawks taking the measure of Montreal Canadiens. The Habits also dropped a 3-0 decision Saturday night, at Toronto, to Maple Leafs.

MEDIATION OFFER GIVEN BY LEAGUE

3. That Finland immediately accepted mediation by the League.

4. That Moscow's reply was expected within twenty-four hours.

At Great Britain's suggestion, the committee decided it must have "no illusions" on the Russian reply, despite Soviet reports in Geneva that there was a 50-50 chance Moscow would accept.

The committee, therefore, is to meet again tomorrow to continue drafting its report to the Assembly based on the Finns' demand for all the material help League members can give. Jose Cervo de Matta, Portuguese delegate, is chairman of the committee.

TO OUST RUSSIA

British sources said that if Moscow refused to cease hostilities and accept League mediation, the British-French Allies would support the Argentine move to oust Russia from the League and give Finland the aid she asked.

The Latin-American nations, despite frequent reports on a division in their ranks, seemed to have reached an agreement on a common stand.

Hosts drew heavy applause from nearly all the delegates from forty nations when he made his dramatic plea for aid to Finland.

A STRIKING EXAMPLE

LONDON, Dec. 11 (CP)—An automobile works now produces in a single day as many trucks as the entire British army possessed when war broke out in 1914. This was cited today as one of the most striking examples of the power in which the problem of adjusting peacetime industry to wartime purposes has been solved.

flanking manoeuvre around the fortified Karelian Isthmus, a Finnish communiqué told of Finnish troops withdrawing from Pitkanen, railroad terminal, about sixty miles from the frontier, after fierce fighting.

The Russian air force actively supported the land offensive, but no details of its operations were mentioned.

The town of Loimola, on a spur railroad north of Pitkanen, was heavily bombed, evidently in preparation for attack as the Russians advanced along the lakeshore.

Several Russian attacks were repulsed with heavy losses at the tourist resort of Toivajärvi, about fifty miles north of Ladoga.

At Suomussalmi the Russians also lost many men, according to the Finns.

Seven Russian tanks were said to have been destroyed in fighting along the Taipale River, on the eastern side of the Karelian Isthmus.

South of Lake Ladoga, in the Karelian Isthmus sector, the Finns generally have succeeded in holding their own. There they withdrew slowly and according to plan, leaving unfortified ground to the Russians and falling back to their strong, prepared defences.

The Finnish command said shore batteries at Kouvola, at the eastern end of the Gulf of Finland, exchanged fire for nearly two hours with Russian warships. The Finns denied reports they had attacked the Kronstadt naval base or any other Russian territory.

GHOSTS IN WOODS

In the Karelian Isthmus while the Finns skis, gliding like ghosts through forests, pierced Russian lines to points about twenty miles from the frontier.

Farther north across Lake Ladoga the Russians were said to be massing troops for a supreme effort to smash through Finnish defences, which have halted them for days.

The ski scouts were reported to have reached almost to the Russian-occupied cities of Raumo and Valkjärvi in their dashes through the Red army's front. Severe guerrilla warfare rocked the Isthmus.

Gunfire echoed in the Gulf of Finland as the Russian fleet engaged in frequent artillery duels with shore batteries.

ARCHBISHOP APPEALS

Erkki Kaila, Archbishop of Finland, appealed to the Christian world "not to leave us to struggle alone."

"When we defend ourselves against the invaders we are fighting against the enemy of Christ and against the Bolshevik state," he said. "We feel we are the outpost of Christianity in the Far North and the whole Western civilization."

Finnish reports said all of Finland's broadcasts to her people and the world, including yesterday's Parliament appeal for aid, were being jammed off the air by Russian interference.

Helming was quiet all day despite a clear sky which made air raids possible. Some shops reopened and movies were running.

The Helsinki postoffice still is using the Olympic Games postmark and some Finns expressed the hope the games might be held as scheduled. The Olympic Stadium has not been touched by the Russian bombing raids.

A FALSE CLAIM

VILPURI, Finland, Dec. 11 (CP)—Colonel Alexander Melblom, military commander in this key port of Finland, said tonight that attacking Soviet forces are still twenty-five miles away, although they claimed to have taken Vilpuri—their main objective on the Karelian Peninsula—a week ago.

The front line of the Soviet infantry to the southwest is at least forty kilometers (about twenty-five miles) from the city and to the east the Russian lines are even farther away, he said.

Vilpuri, on the railway line which connects with Leningrad in Soviet Russia, and one of the most important strategic centres in the country is junction point of five railway lines and seven major highways.

AN ARMED CAMP

Today it is an armed camp. On every road leading to the city, camouflaged vehicles travel. It would take sharp eyes to spot small ordnance and machine gun nests under cover of the snow.

Colonel Melblom said that prisoners taken by the Finns have included Siberian soldiers who are trained in the Finnish front as early as the beginning of November. This, he said, proves that Soviet Russia was contemplating aggression.

The submarine had proceeded only a short distance in the darkness when she ran aground.

Fearing that accidental detection was imminent, the Poles jettisoned all remaining ballast and steered the lightened ship into deep water.

On the fourth day the crew began to suffer from thirst. The wireless apparatus had become damaged and it was difficult to send or receive messages.

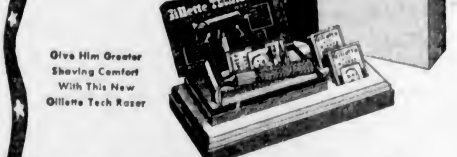

On October 14, at 6 a.m., a British coastal station picked up a feeble and garbled message in English, saying: "We ask permission to enter, but have not got a map, the Orzel." A few hours later a British destroyer discovered the submarine and escorted her into a British port.

The crew members learned to their joy that another Polish submarine they had sought to aid earlier in their fantastic cruise, also had reached safety.

Stocks Finish on Down Side on New York Mart

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 (AP).—The stock market made it three in a row today by finishing on the down side. While there were mild recoveries here and there near the close, and a handful of favorites managed to emerge with modest advances, declines generally ranged from fractions to more than a point.

Steels led the retreat after a forenoon stab at a rally failed. There was no surprise in the official estimate putting this week's mill operations off 1.6 point at 91.2 per cent of capacity.

Business news had its bright as well as cloudy spots, but stocks paid scant attention to either. Dealings were apathetic throughout, with volume largest in the first hour, when prices were at the top for the day. Transfers amounted to 567,100 shares, compared with 574,080 last Friday. The Associated Press average of sixty issues was off .04 of a point at 583, wiping out the net advance of the previous week.

Principal losers included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Lockheed, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, J. C. Penney, International Nickel, Santa Fe and Texas Corporation.

Scandinavian loans rebounded sharply in today's bond market.

Most domestic corporates were fractions to around 2 1/2, lower United States Governments were narrowly mixed.

Gains ranged from 1 to around 3 in the obligations of Denmark and Norway, but Finland's fell off 2 more in a small trade.

DOW JONES' AVERAGES

Twenty rails, 312.4, off .62.

Fifty utilities, 24.89, off .13.

Forty bonds, 80.11, off .26.

Total sales $570,000.

FIGHT FOR LOVE

SILVA TAYLOR

CHAPTER II

...and grumbling, Mamie retired into the bedroom she shared with her husband. The contrast between Mamie and Sheila's mother and father made Star cringe. And she had left Leslie Reed bring her home and make plans to see her again. She must have been crazy, she thought, entering her own room.

It opened upon a court and was so small that there was no space for anything but a bed and dresser, but the curtains at the window were sheer and white. The spread, in dull blue, Star had bought herself with money she had made typing manuscripts for a teacher with literary aspirations.

It was a shabby little room, but it was the only place in the apartment that was orderly. Even the closet, where were hung the cheap little dresses she wore to school, was as clean as soap and water could make it. On the dresser were her cosmetics (lipstick, powder and a jar of cleansing cream), and a small framed photograph of a distinguished-looking man which had been cut from a newspaper. In vain Mamie had tried to find out who this was and why her daughter had framed it. But Star knew better than to tell her mother that it was her own conception of the father she remembered only vaguely.

Star's father had been described by the mother and baby when the child was three years old. For years now Mamie had insisted that he was dead. Star knew this photograph was of someone else, but she chose to forget the real name and pretend it was a picture of her own flesh and blood. She loathed the man whom she was told to address as Daddy. Joe Delevan, Mamie's present husband, drove a truck at night. Star was never able to find out where not away. His days were spent at home quarrelling with his wife. Ever since her daughter could remember, Mamie had clung to this second husband, although she spent hours reviling him. Such had been Star's girlhood.

Lying straight and tense in her bed, Star could not sleep. How much longer must her life go on like this? Was there never to be any change? Surely, in the beginning, her mother must have loved her, but so far as Star could see there had been little evidence of it. Even the name which Star disliked had been given to her with more sentiment than sense. Yet with what a glimmer of hope even then that the sleeping mite in her arms might lift them both to the dramatic heights of which Mamie Bright had dreamed.

Star's earliest memories were of quarrel and quarreling, but there were moments when Mamie had hinted at better days. There had been a time when she had "been somebody and had things," she insinuated. But when Star tried to question her about it she closed up like a clam. Her one ambition was that her daughter should follow the career Mamie considered the herself had missed. From the time Star could walk she had taken dancing lessons until she flatly refused to go on with them. It was ridiculous, she insisted, to throw money away preparing for a profession she had no intention of pursuing, and she worked harder than ever at her abhorred and typing, determined by this method to make her escape.

But how? Clearly the time had come when the break must be made, but could a girl who had just graduated find a position paying enough so that she could live away from home? Never again would she submit to such humiliation as that she had suffered tonight. She did not cry about it, having learned long ago the uselessness of tears. But there must be a way out, she told herself, and she would keep on trying until she found it.

Morning had not lessened her resolution. She decided to go to an employment agency and register as soon as she had finished the dishes. Joe had breakfasted when he came home early in the morning. The kitchen was in its customary state of disorder with egg shells and coffee grounds all over the sink. Star made herself some fresh coffee and drank it standing at the window looking down upon the busy street. Then she plunged into her task, swallowing her distaste, bringing order into chaos which would be wasted labor just as soon as Mamie entered the kitchen. So many times Star had cleaned it, feeling as she did now. This morning seemed no different from any other until the telephone rang. She answered it fearfully. Could it be Leslie, calling as he had promised in spite of what had happened?

It was not Leslie, but Star's type-writing teacher.

"I think I have a position for you," he said.

Such commonplace words to open a new world before her despairing eyes.

"You have?" she repeated, dazed. He must have thought her very stupid, but to save her life she could not think of anything else to say.

"How soon can you come to my office?" he continued.

"Oh," she answered, "right away I'll be there in half an hour."

Leaving the dishpan in the pan of soapy water, she walked from the kitchen into her own room, where she changed from the cotton house coat she wore into her best school dress. Regarding herself in the mirror as she adjusted her cheap little hat, she wondered anxiously if she looked old enough. She was not worried about her ability. Mr. Beverly had often told her she was the best student in his class, but would anyone else in the business world think she was capable of holding down a job?

She sat across the desk from him a little later clasping her pocket-book in nervous hands.

"It's a real break for you," he said. "That is if you're willing to live away from home?" She must be dreaming. Miracles like this couldn't really happen. Lambert is a writer. Nina Lambert. Perhaps you've heard of her?

"No," Star admitted. But then she didn't read very much.

"That doesn't matter. What she wants is a secretary who will live at her house. She likes to have one on the spot as she doesn't work at regular hours. It will be a wonderful opportunity for you if you can get it."

"What makes you think I can?" the girl asked anxiously.

"Because Mrs. Lambert asked me to recommend someone from the graduating class and I suggested you. She isn't paying much to start with, but you will have no expense except your clothes, and the experience will be invaluable to you."

"It would be wonderful," she agreed solemnly.

"You don't mind living away from home?"

"No!" she said so emphatically that he smiled.

"All right. That's settled then. I'll give you her address so you can get right up to see her, and meantime, I'll telephone that you are coming."

As she lifted the brass knocker on the white door of the writer's residence, Star's hands were cold with excitement. Suppose Mrs. Lambert didn't like her? But she would. Oh, she must! One couldn't come this close to escape and be thrust back into prison.

A comfortable middle-aged woman opened the door.

"Mrs. Lambert?" faltered Star.

The woman smiled.

"No, I am the housekeeper. Are you the girl Mr. Beverly is sending?"

Star nodded and was shown into a room bright with flowers and sunshine. It was like walking into another world. Gay and friendly like the one where Judge and Mrs. Bennett lived. But the woman who rose to meet her resembled no one Star had ever seen before.

"Mrs. Lambert?" faltered Star.
